

TRACY DIMOND

Landscape / Landscape / Land Escape

What if there were budget cuts to oxygen?

The weather forecast is a daily alarm, so what did I do to deserve YouTube commercials about retirement plans? Privilege is not worrying every time you go outside.

Even online is outside. Do not read the comments. When a child says I could do that in response to art, say You should do it. Tolls are nothing like a tax on the heart. $22.15 I still want to see you. Show this feeling: waiting for someone to die.

There is an evolution of why and how in every day. Changed my approach from what is right to what is potential. Use animal instincts listening for footfalls and wheels. Define the cost in progress.

You are alive until you are dead. No, I am not special, I am trying to be less depressed. A billboard screams Go outside and live! Thank you for the feedback. Waking is it, the rest is up to you.

Are you looking for proof? Forget landscape paintings as clear reality. Birds scream in the wind. They feel what is next.
